

TAKE ME OUT TO THE BALLGAME

Every year I take my team out for an all day office outing to a Mets game in New York. I rent a small bus and we bring along snacks and soda for the two and a half hour trip. This year the bus had a DVD player. We watched DVD's of the Three Stooges all the way down. Even though I have seen those episodes a hundred times they are still funny. I think the adults actually enjoyed the Stooges more than the kids.

After the game, the Mets held a "Senior Stroll" where we could walk out on the field and around the bases. Mr. Met was at second base to greet everyone as they came by, as you can see above. It probably didn't hurt that I was wearing a Carlos Beltran tee. The middle picture shows me between Gail Embrey on the left and Annette Sabia on the right. Annette is a client who is as big a Mets fan as I am so I invite her along. The picture on the right is Greg Kay and his wife, Kathleen. Watch out Gail and Greg – Now everyone knows what you look like!

I want to thank all of you lovely people we work with because without you there would never be an office outing.

WE ARE NOW ON SKPE

Greg, Debbie Wilder and I recently got all the necessary hardware and software and signed up for Skype. Greg's username is gregory.m.kay. You can reach me at alan.eckstrand and Debbie at deb.wilder.

We have already done several client meetings and numerous office meetings using Skype. It definitely is the closest thing to an in person meeting that I have seen. Feel free to request a meeting using Skype if you are set up for it. If you have not looked into it I would recommend that you do so.

Gregory's Money Tip

A stealth bomber flies under the radar screen and therefore is not detectable. In the world of finance, taxes and inflation are like a stealth bomber eroding your money and you might not be paying attention. Therefore, you must make at least 5% on your money to break even.

Bank on Yourself will address these issues.

Do you know how?
